GEORGE the III, of England who found the American colonists such hard subjects to cope with was fond of apple dumplings, and went crazy some say because the Americans threw the tea into Boston Harbor, and others say because he could never find out how the apple got inside of the dumpling.

DE LESSEPS was invited to breakfast with the King of Belgium the other day, and the loyal host sent three court carriages to the station to meet the Viscount and his suit. The Viscount's suit consisted of one of his little girls, whom he had in one hand, and his luggage of a gripsack, which he had in the other.

THEY have a rapid way of disposing of the Chinese in California when they become too troublesome. On Monday last about twelve o'clock at night a newly erected wash house building in Chinatown was destroyed by the use of giant powder or some similar explosive. Not being occupied yet, the damage was confined wholly to the building. This is the second Chinese wash house disposed of in this manner.

THE following is a dispatch from Tucson to the San Francisco Chronicle:

"The statement telegraphed from this place about the opposition of Sonorians to the building of the Guaymas branch of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railroad is believed to be greatly overdrawn. There is some feeling among the citizens of Guaymas against the location of the depot so far from the old town, yet it is a local affair and does not represent a general hostile feeling against the building of the road, which, at last accounts, was going on as usual.

General Thomas Ewing, of Ohio, who has been confined to his bed in this place of typhus malarial fever for several days, is now pronounced convalescent by his physicians.

Nasby.

Governor's Island, (which is in the State of New York) Sep. 15, 1880.—General Hancock and me heard of Maine this morning. We rejoiced.

General Stinger, of Mississippi, who served under Lee from the time that great man took command of the Confederate forces, to the final surrender at Appomattox, was affected to tears.

"Thank God," said he, "for Maine. The country is safe. Maine stands up for the Union."

And he and General Hancock shook hands solemnly, and retired to the next room, which they emerged from with their lips.

Patsey O'Shaughnessy, with his voice trembling with emotion, remarked, that Maine had spoken. He was so joyous over this triumph of purity that he stood throw his bar open to-night, and drinks would be free to all true Democrats in his ward. It was too glorious.

I telegraph the glorious nooze to Deekin Pogran at the Corners, and his answer came back quick.

"It is too much. Bascom is illuminated, and we have cleaned out every nigger for five miles. The boys are still at it."

General Hancock took it with the same impressiveness as a soldier. "The nooze is glorious," said he, "we have won the first skirmish, but not the final battle. It is time for decisive action, for the real struggle comes off in November. Now is our time. Nasby, get them Greenback documents together, and shove 'em thro' Maine. Let me announce—in Maine—in favor of unlimited greenbacks."

Whose bleaves Hancock isn't a statesman don't know very much.

He immediately sent a letter to New Jersey, insisting on high protective tariff, and another to Indiana, holding that the prosperity of the kentry demands free trade.

Since the Maine election Hancock has woken up, and is displaying remarkable capassity. I now have faith in him.

Money is coming in good. We have $200,000 to vote in Indiana to vote in October, to make shore of carrying that State. Of course we carry Indiana, that settles it.

The skies are bright. I shall once more have the Postoffice at the Corners.
